

WASHINGTON AND LEE UNIVERSITY

A campus visit provides the unique opportunity to experience firsthand life as a member of the Washington and Lee community. We value this residential community and have high standards for the behavior of all of its members – including students, members of the faculty and staff of the College, residents of Lexington, and all visitors to our campus.

As W&L students, you have access to Student Handbook, which outlines the Standards of Conduct. The following are some Standards of Conduct which we feel are particularly relevant to your hosting experience and which we would like to highlight here:

- 1) Prospective students are responsible for their individual actions, but as a host, you are their resource for navigating campus life and you should take that responsibility seriously. Whether or not this is a prospective student's first W&L experience, they will look to you for guidance and how to behave around other students.
- 2) The University does not give students protection from the consequences of violations of federal, state, and local laws, including those pertaining to alcohol and other drugs. Washington and Lee prohibits the abuse of alcohol and other drugs and expects members of the community to abide by federal, state, and local regulations.
- 3) Washington and Lee strongly recommends that student visitors to the University remain on campus or within the Lexington city limits and that they refrain from traveling in student-operated vehicles. As a host, you are welcome and encouraged to show a prospective student around campus or town, but please do not drive them anywhere or take them on Traveller. Additionally, prospective students count as potential new members of a Greek organization, so please do not take them into Greek housing.

Host Statement:

I have read and fully understand the applicable Washington and Lee University Standards of Conduct outlined above and agree to work with the prospective student so they will behave responsibly and legally for the duration of the visit. I agree to stay with the prospective student, report any medical conditions or emergencies to a University official, report policy violations to a University official, keep the student visitor on campus or within the Lexington city limits, and abide by all Standards of Conduct.
